Weekly WildTech News

January 27, 2012

- DIGITAL LEARNING DAY
- ACUITY TIP
- CLASSROOM RESOURCE
- END OF LIFE TECHNOLOGY

KOKOMO-CENTER SCHOOLS PROVIDES AN INFORMATION AND TECHNOLOGY-ENRICHED ENVIRONMENT THAT SUPPORTS LIFELONG LEARNING.

Technology newsletter

DIGITAL LEARNING DAY™
February 1, 2012
http://www.digitallearningday.org
Brought to you by ALLIANCE FOR EXCELLENT EDUCATION
Follow the action at Twitter.com/DLDay2012 or with #DLDay

Acuity Tip by Teni Helmberger

When logging into your Acuity account, I recommend visiting the Acuity Community (last tab on the right of the screen when viewing the screen)
The Acuity Community offers valuable resources to assist teachers and staff with various Acuity issues. Log in to access training videos, webinar recordings, support documents, and a community guide. They also offer an Educator Self Service where educators can log in and receive answers to general questions about Acuity.

ISTEP+ Test Countdown: 37 days

Check out the Count Down Clock on the KCSC Website

Classroom Resource by Megan McConnell

Ever want to print off an article for your students to read, but don't want all the advertisements? Now, it's easy to get those resources without the pop-ups and extra stuff. Simply find the article you want to print, copy the URL, and paste it into the Print Friendly URL search box. Easy!!!!
http://www.printfriendly.com

End of Life Technology by Rich Arroyo

As district desktops reach EOL (End of Life), it is important for you to know that this outdated computing technology will not be replaced with matching equipment. Instead, Kokomo-Center Schools is moving forward with supplying cutting edge technology for our students and teachers. How exciting it is that we work for a school district that embraces technology and offers innovative technology tools to help keep our staff members and students engaged in learning.